4 Perfect comes with top form. From lane four, the main track is for the four-year-old to find close, from which she won twice in three heat. If she then decides the pace, she will likely be a tough nut to crack. 1 Blast Pad accounted for a good finish as second last time. She is fast from the start and from the lead or the pocket she is the given the challenger. 2 Country Home should be has to be considered from its nice draw. 5 Emah Roc now steps down in class.

8 Knut Rapid looks very nice and in good shape for the day. the lane is not great, but he should be able to make sensible down the track with only ten horses in the race. The distance is a plus for him. 11 Hoohoo Haahaa is faces good conditions the race and is greatly favoured by the distance as he has never been worse than second in five heat. 7 Wulcan Laylock has an experienced driver for the context in Malte Handfast. 6 Romo may compete barefoot for the first time.

5 Timecatcher won the first two starts of his career. After that, he has been matched in tough companies. Vi expect that they want to show him off in the great shape right away. 1 Jula Menuncio opened fast in the last and from the inner lane at Axevalla he should be seen with a good chance of holding the lead, from there he can be hard to reach. 9 Cashew is developing strongly and would favoured if there is pace. 11 Mooseisloose CC was clearly improved last time.

4 Staro Raili is quick starter and comes from several strong efforts. Now the road to the lead is once again open and from there it is the horse to beat for the others. 1 Karma Mearas made a strong debut for Markus B Svedberg last time and should have moved forward with the race. The strength is there and 2640 is no minus. 3 Monroe Wine is not completely "room clean", but shows good capacity and fine strength. 5 Käraste Sisu is speedy and with luck her sprint bites nicely.

2 Cabaret Bi has won 5/6 flawless races on Swedish soil and shows very good capacity for the class. He is quick starter and now it is once again draw for management. 4 JH Million last time showed that he can sprint really well and with a bit of a luck he is the main challenger. 6 KFCSox does it stable and well all the time, and above all seems to develop with each start. 8 USMarines showed good capacity with Bergh last year and can do better than shown this year.

2 Wishful Order comes from a Klass I-final where he trotted 1.10.8a/2140. He does well from the front as well as from the back, and with a attacking position to go, he is a contender. 8 Great Time Trot asserts itself some class higher up. With strength, speed and toughness, he can handle any plan. 1 Tug Of War finds the lead again and if he can only manage his forces better, it can last all the way again. 5 The World Is Mine is fast with a trip from behind.
