3 Unica SLM started very well in Sweden with two straight in convincing style, but was not as good in the last run. Easier opponents here and will go for an early lead. 5 Lavender is a fine horse who won easily from the lead despite a 09-opening. Might give away the front this time. 1 Just For Show comes from an E3-heat and kept up the pace alright as fourth, a bit behind. 2 Dominica Face is a bit tricky but has good speed when avoiding a mistake. First American bike.

7 Dalens Elvis is our pick in an open and interesting race. Scored a good second spot behind Kingen Mearas before that. Much easier here and favorite for the lead. 3 Charlestone can do more than shown. Örjan Kihlström again and first barefoot, which is a plus according to the trainer. 1 Vixi Garbo comes from a good win after a nice trip and did well without shoes. Possible. 9 Stop The Count galloped twice last time but showed good speed in between. Easier now and Magnus A Djuse.

2 Fly Equos Jet comes with four straight wins and has won both from behind and in the lead. Opens fast and has a good chance regardless. 7 Thai Face Time is a good 3-year-old on the way up. He galloped on the way to a final place in the last E3-heat. Change in equipment here and Djuse now. 11 Ronno finished strongly last time but has been beaten by Fly Equos Jet twice in a row. Poor number. 6 King of Trotter is the trainer pleased with.

2 Juni Blixt is a top horse who is in great shape. He got a very tough journey last time and followed strongly. First American bike then and same now. Goes for the front. 4 Brageson is fast and gifted, but he was not as good last time and not completely fit. If he handles the start, he should be considered early. 1 Guli Fantom is capable and strong but needs some racing luck with this number. 6 Fräcke Prins was heavily backed in the V75 last time and did well.

3 Eclipse As is a top horse but failed last time in a heat to the Kungapokalen and has got surgery after that. Well prepared and the best horse here. 1 Caviar From Mine hasn't convinced lately, but the capacity is high and he is a very quick starter. Could lead this for a long while. 10 IDGot A Colt has done brilliantly for the new trainer and finished fast last time. 2 Timotejs Megabyte showed already last year that he is good for this class. Was really fast after a mistake last time.
