5 King came back well after galloping last time, but galloped again on the final turn with energy left. He finished second to last in third, and in a faultless race the chance of victory is good. 8 Slim Viktor has done two good races under new trainer and now it may be time for victory. challenger. 9 Djuse started his career in a good way, but it hasn't been the same lately. Should not is considered out in the comeback. 1 Teton Diamond decided easily with his victory from pocket.

7 Grand Circuit was out in a tough Breeder Crown- last heat and was way too lively (1.12 first lap) in the lead, so that start is just to forget. He's going down a grade now. 9 Even You stood for a strong effort from management second last and then got a reward for the good form he has shown for a long time. If he's as good again, he'll do just fine. 2 Redzone is quick starter and fits well right away. 10 Ares Maanos comes in much better form than the line shows.

2 Greensboro Zet is a 5-year-old who has always shown great talent and high capacity. Now he has made a few starts as a gelding and has finished stable. 5 Akilles Face has found top form with Veikko Haapakangas after being very tricky before with Adrian Kolgjini. Here, too, development should come with the more stable efforts. 10 Harpy is very strong and under strong development. 4 Missing Tooma is stable and keeps up with all tempos.

5 Egon Vendil won in good fashion from his favorite position, lead, last time. attack towards tight again and is the horse to beat from there. Both 6 Picobello and 7 Lukanos are strong and tough. The latter was a little worse last time after being almost finer than ever after galloping before. Picobello is more stable and both of these can withstand heavy work, so a lane a bit out behind the wing shouldn't be too much of a problem. 3 Ironhide Sisu has good strength and nice draw.
